Koshi Tappu Jungle Safari - 4 Days

KOSHI TAPPU JUNGLE SAFARI TOUR: 4 DAYS

Koshi Tappu Wildlife Reserve is a protected area in Nepal, providing an opportunity to experience the diverse flora and fauna of the eastern region, situated in the lower Terai valley. It is an ideal holiday destination for safari tours, including the Chitwan and Bardiya Jungle Safari. The reserve spans 176 square kilometers of wetlands across the Sunsari, Saptari, and Udayapur Districts. It features extensive reed beds and freshwater marshes within the Kosi River floodplain, with elevations ranging from 75 to 81 meters (246 to 266 feet). Established in 1976, it was designated as a Ramsar site in December 1987 and is home to Nepal's last remaining herd of wild water buffalo. The Koshi Tappu Safari allows visitors to traverse the vast expanse of the Kosi River, characterized by its blue waters and lush jungle on either side. This safari is regarded as a major attraction. The forest serves as a habitat for wild buffalo, hog deer, wild boar, spotted deer, blue bull, and jackals.

The predominant vegetation in this area consists of tall khar-pater grasslands, interspersed with patches of Khair-sissoo scrub forest and deciduous mixed riverine jungle. Exploration of the Koshi Tappu forest can be done on elephant back, or alternatively, one can venture deep into the protected areas via jeep safari. The reserve regularly breeds elephants, making it one of the few such facilities in Asia. During the Koshi Tappu Safari, particularly at dawn and dusk, visitors can observe a variety of birds and animals along the river. The Barrage, located downstream of the river, is the prime location for birdwatching. Join the Koshi Tappu Jungle Safari and witness the 432 wild water buffalo that inhabit the area. Among the 485 recorded bird species, notable ones include the watercock, Indian nightjar, dusky eagle owl, black-headed cuckoo shrike, white-tailed stonechat, striated grassbird, large adjutant stork, Pallas's fish eagle, common goldeneye, and gull-billed tern. The reserve also hosts 31 species of mammals, including the Asian elephant, spotted deer, hog deer, and wild boar.
